PARADE AT BARRACKS

Flowers Placed on Graves at the National Cemetery by G. A. R. Members.

Soldiers of the Civil War stood at attention with oiled heads five minutes while church bells tolled at noon, Friday, Memorial Day, out of respect to the memory of their dead comrades. They stopped wherever they were and took off their hats, in compliance with the request of the officers of the G. A. R.

Flowers were placed on the graves of the 15,000 soldiers dead at the national cemetery at Jefferson Barracks in the afternoon by members of the various Grand Army posts and military organizations. Two special trains left Union Station carrying the veterans and their friends to the burial ground. Large crowds went to the barracks on excursion boats, which made several trips from the levee.

Troops, Pass in Review.
The members of the posts and camps assembled on the new parade grounds at Jefferson Barracks for the parade to the cemetery for the annual decoration of graves and memorial exercises. As each organization arrived it was assigned to its place in the formation by the Grand Marshal, Col. Robert N. Denham.

When the column was formed, Col. Adam Slaker, leading the troops stationed at Jefferson Barracks, passed in review and escorted the aged soldiers to the rostrum in the outer inclosure of the national cemetery. Minute guns were fired during the march. The music of the bands was still as the column entered the cemetery, except for the tap of the snare drum.

Charles F. Vogel presided at the ceremonies, which closely followed the ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic. The invocation by the Rev. Thomas H. Haskins was followed by the reading of national and state encampment orders by Louis C. Hesse. Charles T. Bullion delivered Lincoln's address at Gettysburg, and the benediction was pronounced by William Conroy.

Among the organizations which participated in the memorial exercises were the Sons of Veterans, United Spanish War Veterans, Army of the Philippines, Army and Navy Union and the United Confederate Veterans.

The status of Gen. U. S. Grant on the city hall lawn was decorated in the morning by the members of the Women's Relief Corps. The women's auxiliaries participated in decorating the graves of soldiers in the various cemeteries, assisted by representatives of the G. A. R. posts.

The graves of the unknown and unidentified dead in the St. Louis potter's field were decorated during the morning by 30 inmates and employees of the city infirmary under the direction of Supt. William Anderson. Volunteers were asked for and half a hundred men worked almost all morning cleaning up the cemetery and placing flowers on the mounds.

FLIES 19 MILES IN 18 MINUTES, LANDS IN PARK

Bleakley at Times Is 4000 Feet
Up in Trip From Creve
Coeur to the City.

A flight of 19 miles in 18 minutes from Creve Coeur Lake to Forest Park, was made Friday morning by William H. Bleakley, one of the aviators of the Benoit aircraft school. He landed safely at 8:58 a. m. after making a detour of a mile to enable him to land against the strong wind. At some points in the trip the aviator was 4000 feet in the air, rising to that height to escape the jerky air waves below.

THINKS HE CAN TAKE THE CROW OUT OF A ROOSTER

Man Writes to Agricultural Department and Experiments Will Be Made.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dr. B. T. Galloway has received a letter from a correspondent who claims to be "the guy that can take the crow out of the rooster." Dr. Galloway was so rejoiced at the receipt of the news, in the hope that the man's discovery will eventually put the chicken in every back yard, that he asked the Bureau of Animal Industry to experiment at once with a view to soft peddling crowing roosters.

BELLEVIEW RARE BIRD HAS COMB LIKE HEN

Belleview has a new kind of bird. College professors and local ornithologists of note have looked at it. "It's a bird," was all they would say. The bird was found by Nick Buhr in his shed on Silver Street.

"I'd never seen a critter just like it," said Nick to a reporter, "and I didn't take kindly to capturing it. I banded it. So I put on my gloves and went after it. But my it was as tame as a chicken—tamer than most of mine." The bird is now in a cage in a saloon on West Main street. Its body is about the size of a pigeon. The feathers, which are like those of a water fowl, are jet black. It has a beak three inches long, the base of which is a bright red and the rest a bright yellow.

The legs are seven inches long and are green. It has a comb like a hen and up to date has not uttered a sound of any kind. Its toes are long and not webbed. It prefers crawfish to any other kind of feed and is not afraid of anyone.

CALLING "NAKED TRUTH" A STEAL RAISES A STORM

Monument Directorate Discusses Charges of Plagiarism Against Wandschneider.

TRIES TO KEEP IT SECRET

Gustav Cramer's Explosion of Wrath Against Sculptor Opens the Crater.

A stormy scene between Prof. W. Wilhelm Wandschneider, creator of the rejected "Naked Truth" design, and Gustav Cramer, one of the board of directors of the Pretorius-Schurz-Daenzer Memorial, followed the compromise and supposedly peaceful meeting of the directors at the Liederkranz Club Thursday evening, called for the purpose of finding a way out of the peculiar situation that has arisen over the award to Wandschneider and the subsequent repudiation of the award.

Wandschneider and his wife had waited until the meeting was over. As the directors came out Wandschneider addressed them amiably.

"How do you do, Mr. Cramer?" he said, extending his hand. Cramer glared at him. Then he said, without accepting the hand:

"Away with you! We want nothing to do with you! You are a plagiarist!" "I do not understand," replied Wandschneider in German; "there is some mistake."

"There is no mistake!" bellowed Cramer. "You copied my design from a sculpture by Oje of the 'Naked Truth.'"

"That is not so," replied Wandschneider. "I have never seen Oje's work and did not know until this controversy arose that there was such a one as you mention. I could not have copied."

"Get that book," Cramer ordered, turning to a man standing near. The man went back into the room from which the directors had just come out and brought with him a book containing Oje's sculpture.

Wandschneider studied the drawing a minute or so and then said:

"There is some similarity, but the ideas are far apart as the day and night. Even if I had seen this work before I would have made my design just as I did. You cannot compare the two except as you compare the figures of any two women. There is nothing else in the idea or spirit of the two designs for comparison."

The details of the verbal exchange with Cramer were told to a Post-Dispatch reporter by Wandschneider, with his wife acting as interpreter. Wandschneider does not speak English, but his wife is fluent in the tongue.

The previous conflict between the jury and the Board of Directors wrought havoc with the plans for the memorial, but this newest explosion, coming at a time when the directorate was busy pouring oil on the troubled waters, threatens an eruption.

Concealment Effort Fails.
Every effort was made by those concerned or interested to keep the scene of Thursday night from becoming public, with its startling detail of charges of rank plagiarism made against Wandschneider.

But in endeavoring to keep the facts from the newspapers and the public the men who were trying to keep the dove of peace to perch over the artist's model of the "Naked Truth," reckoned without their guest.

Bodies of Aviators Found.
ZOPPOT, Germany, May 29.—A party of fishermen today found the bodies of Lieutenant-Commander Walter Janket and Engineers' Mate Diekmann of the German Navy, who lost their lives on Feb. 7, in the Gulf of Danzig through the collapse of their aeroplane.

They were flying between Zoppot and Aderhorst, when a wing of their machine broke at a height of 150 feet and they fell into the sea and were drowned.

BLACKBIRD FLIES OVER HOUSE, BOY KILLED BY WAGON

Mrs. Piepenschneider, Because of Superstition, Keeps Little Son From Picnic.

HE GOES FOR MEDICINE

Is on Roller Skates and Is Run
Down by Vehicle Within a Block of His Home.

Mrs. Otto Piepenschneider of 2278 Alice avenue, made fearful of family calamity by the flight of a blackbird, over her home, kept her 11-year-old son, Paul, home from a church picnic Friday. As the boy was roller skating to a drugstore to get some medicine for her he collided with an ice wagon team and was crushed to death under the wheels of the vehicle.

Several times within the past few days Mrs. Piepenschneider noticed a blackbird flying over the house. There is an old German superstition that this portends trouble. Mrs. Piepenschneider was so impressed by the repeated flights of the bird that she persuaded the boy to miss the picnic and stay at home, fearing that an accident would befall him if he went.

At 8:30 a. m. she sent him to a drug store in the neighborhood for some medicine. He was roller skating over the asphalt street east on Alice avenue along side of a wagon of the Hannibal Ice and Fuel Co., driven by Harry Dieckemper of 4433 North Twentieth street. The horses were trotting. At Florissant avenue Dieckemper turned the horses south. The boy, not expecting the team to turn, could not check himself. He ran against one of the horses, fell, and the wheels passed over him before the team could be stopped.

The accident occurred within a block of his home on Alice avenue. His mother was notified and hastened to the scene. He was carried into the saloon of John H. Dieckemper of 4433 North Twentieth street. The horses were trotting. At Florissant avenue Dieckemper turned the horses south. The boy, not expecting the team to turn, could not check himself. He ran against one of the horses, fell, and the wheels passed over him before the team could be stopped.

The boy was badly crushed, the wheels of the wagon passing over his chest. The accident happened at 8:15 a. m.

The boy's father is Otto Piepenschneider, a baker at 2278 Alice avenue. Dieckemper was arrested, but, according to the police, he is blameless, as he could not have averted the accident. The horses were going at a slow trot, the driver said, and the boy skated into them. Edward Hannibal, one of the members of the company, was riding on the back step of the wagon when the boy was run over. He was not arrested.

Let papa and mamma quarrel and get divorced, and live apart, and then become reconciled and remarry and live together again. Hildegard Whittington, 4 years old, should worry. She has her grandpa.

When Mrs. Alma D. Whittington, 22 years old, of 345 Folsom avenue, decided to go back to her husband, Stanley Whittington, she just took it for granted that her little daughter, Hildegard Whittington, would go back to her mother, not from any particular place in Oklahoma; as an artist as well as a philosopher.

Bill Withrow, 40 years old, from Oklahoma, but not from any particular place in Oklahoma; as an artist as well as a philosopher.

Bill was arrested for pretending to be deaf and dumb while selling cards for 10 cents each and was taken before Judge Kimmel in Police Court Friday. Though his trade is being deaf and dumb, Bill first talked the Court into discharging him and then, putting a real artist's finish on his work, talked the Court into buying one of his cards.

The Sage Brush Philosopher, as Bill called himself, was deaf-and-dumb on the Clayton road Thursday night when Patrolman Martineau came on the scene. Bill wore a placard stating that he was "deaf and dumb," for the benefit of passersby to whom he was selling cards with a motto for 10 cents each. But Martineau thought that between rushes of business Bill grew over-garulous for a really, truly mute.

"The deaf and dumb part doesn't enter into the question at all," Bill told the court. "It's just an incident. My business is peddling the optimism which you'll find on these cards. Ten cents each, your honor, will you have one? I never cut the price." The card read:

"Live, Love, Laugh."
"Live, love and laugh. There'll come a time when you can't. The mummy has been dead more than 5000 years. Don't be a mummy—Bill Barlow."

It was a beautiful sentiment coming from a man that was deaf and dumb and that he was a philosopher.

"You may go," Judge Kimmel told him, "and I'll buy one of the cards, but don't play deaf and dumb again. Just sell the cards."

Kimmel posted it among his collection of mottoes on the wall of the court room.

Negro's Knee Dislocated in 30-Foot Plunge.
Trey Ezell of 256 Chestnut street, a negro window washer, employed at the Merchants' Exchange, fell from one of the windows on the trading floor at noon Friday into an area way which separated the exchange from the Pierce Building.

The fall was about 30 feet and Ezell's right knee was dislocated.

Frenchman Leads in Indianapolis
Race When Burman Is Stopped by Fire After Setting Record.

DE PALMA, HERR, JENKINS QUIT BEFORE 20 LAPS

Boiling Sun Causes Considerable Tire Trouble on Brick Speedway Where 100,000 See 27 Men of 5 Nations Start in $75,000 Contest.

SPEEDWAY, INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—Jules Goux, daring driver of the French Peugeot, who took the lead at 140 miles in the $75,000 auto race of 500 miles, when Bob Burman, in a Keeton, stopped for fuel, led the field at the 200-mile mark in 2h. 33m. 4s., and continued to show the way at a terrific clip around the brick-paved 2½-mile course.

The Frenchman's lead was further increased when Burman's car caught fire on the sixtieth lap and burned out its carburetor. A crowd estimated at 100,000, standing in the boiling sun, cheered when Burman put out the fire and came around to the pit to put in a new carburetor. This was accomplished and he prepared to resume the race when it had been tested.

Burman, prior to his stop, broke the 100-mile speedway record for his class of car, making the distance in 1h. 15m. 50s. This is 8 minutes better than the previous record, which was 1h. 23m. 43s. His speed for the century approximated 80 miles an hour.

The great course was lined with cheering thousands when the representatives of five nations got away, coming down the stretch at 50 miles an hour and increasing their speed when the start was ordered. The race was begun in a burning sun, which heated the two-and-a-half-mile brick course and made it exceedingly destructive to tires.

Jenkins' Schact was the first car to stop at the pits. The machine blew a right rear tire. He lost a lap by the stop.

Before Jenkins started again, Anderson's Stutz drew up at the pits with the same trouble.

De Palma, in a Mercer, dropped out of the race on the eighteenth lap, on account of cylinder trouble. He soon was followed by Jenkins' Schact, which broke a crank case on the twentieth lap.

Herr's Stutz broke a clutch release in the back stretch and caught fire. He was out of the race. No one was injured.

The boiling sun caused considerable tire trouble and one car after another dropped in at the pits for a change.

Zuccarelli's Peugeot, a French car, went out of the race with burned-out bearings after making 18 laps. This was the first foreign car to leave the track.

Another foreign car had to drop out when Grant's Isotta broke a gasoline feed pipe.

B. Endicott's Case also was forced out of the race by a broken crank shaft. Burman made his first stop for oil and gasoline and Goux took the lead at 140 miles.

Two Men Are Injured.
Tower's Mason No. 6 upset on the back turn, due to a tire blow-out, and both driver and mechanic, Les Dunning, were hurt. Tower and Dunning were taken to the field hospital, where it was found Tower's right leg had been broken and three of Dunning's ribs fractured. Tower was bruised severely. The car was wrecked.

The Isotta, driven by Trucco, went out in the fortieth lap, with a broken gas valve.

The drivers suffered intensely from the heat. Mulford was running about four laps behind the leaders at 130 miles.

Harry Endicott's Nyberg went out on the back stretch in his twenty-fourth lap. It was far behind the leaders.

Haupt's Mason No. 35 left the track on the sixty-fifth lap because of a slipping clutch, but he got back into the race in a few minutes.

J. Nikrent's Case car went out on the sixty-seventh lap with a slipping clutch. Trains and interurbans began early today to carry the thousands to the speedway, and the roads were filled with automobiles by daylight. Hundreds of persons slept in the open just outside the track in order to be on hand when the gates opened at 6 o'clock.

Inside, Capt. Carpenter of the Speedway guards stationed his men just before the gates were opened and gave them final instructions for handling the throng. Ambulances were placed about the track and everything prepared for the start at 10 o'clock sharp.

Netting grew brisker, with Burman still ruling the favorite by a slight margin over Anderson's Stutz. Considerable money was being placed on the foreign cars. The speed of the foreign cars seemed to give the better more confidence in them, although their ability

BANKERS TALK OF HAVING ONE FRISCO RECEIVER OUSTED

At Any Rate They Will Seek Third Man—Brownsville Deal to Be Gone Into.

PARIS INQUIRY IS LIKELY

French Banker Says He Has Changed Opinion of Americans' Moral Worth.

The Frisco receivership reached such a stage of bitter controversy Friday between the New York and Paris bankers who floated the bonds issues and the management of the company which had the receivers appointed in the St. Louis Tuesday without consultation with the bankers, that it was said the banking interests would have recourse to every legal means to have a new receiver appointed to represent them.

Speyer & Co. of New York, who floated the issue of general lien 5 per cent mortgage bonds, issued the following statement:

"Messrs Speyer & Co. stated today that neither their firm nor the Bankers' Trust Co., trustee under the 5 per cent general lien mortgage, were consulted about the St. Louis and San Francisco receivership, or about the selection of Messrs Winchell and West as receivers."

Would Oust One Receiver.

Press dispatches from New York indicated that the bankers were getting ready to make a determined fight to have at least one of the present receivers ousted, and one of their representatives named to replace him, or to have a third receiver appointed to represent the interests of the bond holders.

There is only $500,000 of Frisco stock outstanding, as against a bonded debt of approximately $300,000,000. The New York bankers contend that Winchell and West are the representatives only of the stockholders, represented by the management of the company. The bankers regard the interests of the bondholders as far more important in this crisis in the road, than those of the stockholders.

The New York bankers still are insisting that B. P. Youkum, chairman of the executive committee of the Frisco, and chief financial director of the road, will have many things to explain. It is said the bankers will insist on knowing the extent to which the numerous branch roads acquired under the Youkum management have been "freed of suckers."

The report of the Louisiana Public Service Commission shows that the net losses to the Frisco, from the operation of the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico railroad, acquired in 1910, have been, up to June 30, 1912, $202,362.73.

This division of the Frisco system includes the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico railroad, which was promoted and built by the St. Louis Union Trust Co. The road was sold to the Frisco by the trust company. Youkum is a director of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., and is said to have been a member of the syndicate which promoted the Brownsville road.

The Frisco ran a bond issue of $500,000,000 to acquire the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico railroad. This division of the system is said by local financiers to have been almost as heavy a drain upon the Frisco resources as the Chicago & Eastern Illinois.

Earnings Double in 10 Years.

Under the terms of the purchase of the Frisco paid almost $60,000,000 for the 180,445 shares of common stock, and 125,535 shares of preferred stock of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad, in addition to its obligation to pay nearly $3,000,000 a year in dividends on this stock, the rate being 10 per cent on the common stock and 6 per cent on the preferred stock. The gross earnings of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, for the year ending June 30, 1912, were $13,234,464, and the net earnings were approximately $3,500,000.

The earnings of the Frisco, exclusive of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, were $42,159,777 gross, and $16,172,973 net, for the year ending June 30, 1912. The earnings, both gross and net, have doubled within the last 10 years, during which time Youkum has been in control. After paying all interest charges, the Frisco system proper, and the system including the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, has shown a substantial surplus.

The Frisco was in the hands of a receiver from Dec. 23, 1912, to June 30, 1913. After it passed out of the hands of receivers its management began immediately to extend the lines into Oklahoma and Texas. These extensions and acquisitions have been continued until the system embraces 7897.47 miles.

The temper of the French bankers was shown in interviews given in Paris. It is thought about $27,000,000 Frisco bonds have been sold to French investors, and the Paris bankers who participated in their distribution declare investigators will be sent to the United States to investigate the Frisco affairs.

M. de Verneuil, representing the Paris Bourse, issued the following statement: "The United States is a great country and its resources are immense and inexhaustible. I have not changed my opinion in regard to the values of the country, but I have changed my view of the moral worth of some of its citizens."

"The methods of some American financiers have done a great deal of harm to the French investors, whose assistance they often have solicited, and who have been only too ready to open their pockets to foreign enterprises."

"I am very much afraid that, as a result of the ill-advised conduct of these American financiers, other American stocks, even those above suspicion, no longer will be accepted by the French public."

"If the information gained is what we believe it to be you can say that no more American stocks will be admitted to quotation on the floor or curb of the Paris Bourse."

Which Makes the West End Smell—POT or KETTLE?

BISHOP GIVES UP FIGHT; WIFE TO GET A DIVORCE

If Attorneys Can Agree on Alimony, Judge Will Order Judgment for Her.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Mrs. Abigail Hancock Bishop, whose suits for divorce against James Cunningham Bishop, millionaire society man and banker, has attracted crowds to Supreme Court Justice Goff's court in the last week, has won her case. Her attorneys and counsel for Bishop agreed this morning to drop the case and let judgment go to Mrs. Bishop.

The conclusion was reached after a 15-minute conference with Justice Goff, and judgment would have been entered at once had the lawyers been able to agree as to the amount of alimony to be granted.

Justice Goff left them to decide this point and announced that if they came to an agreement he would order judgment in favor of Mrs. Bishop. If they failed, he declared that the trial would have to go on. In any event, Mrs. Bishop's victory is no longer in doubt.

Settlement Overturns.

The overtures for a settlement came from Henry W. Tate, brother of the ex-President and counsel for Bishop, and from George Gordon Battle, counsel for Mrs. J. Temple Gwathmey, named as correspondent, and wife of a president of the New York Cotton Exchange.

Mrs. Gwathmey has not yet appeared in court and thus far she has been identified only by photographs.

Bishop scored once in yesterday's lively session. Edgar J. Moore, cashier of the Hotel Astor, said Bishop was not the man who paid for the rooms used by "Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Baer of Philadelphia," and said he had never seen Bishop before.

John Silas, who appeared late in the afternoon, was the day's principal witness. He told of serving an elaborate dinner, preceded by highballs and including whisky, champagne and brandy, to Bishop and a woman he identified from the photograph as Mrs. Gwathmey, and following it with a midnight lunch of whisky and cheese sandwiches on Dec. 23.

Elaborate Dinners.

On Dec. 5, the same couple had another elaborate dinner in their suite, he said. The waiter's description of the negligence in which the woman ate her dinners made Bishop, previously nonchalant, turn a fiery red, and Mrs. Bishop smiled broadly. Bishop's costume as well, according to the waiter, was of a most slender character.

Lungs Were Affected; Now In Good Health

I took Eckman's Alternative to me very highly. It is now nearly two years since I first took it. I am now well and I dare say if it had not been for Eckman's Alternative I should not be here today. I highly recommend the Alternative, as I owe my life to it."

LONG BEACH, Cal., May 28.—The collapse of one girder, originally too slender to bear the burdens intended for it, and which had almost rotted away, caused the wrecking of the Municipal Auditorium pier last Saturday, with its loss of 37 lives. This was the explanation given by the board of three experts

Accepting this report, the jury's verdict was that the victims of the catastrophe had come to their death by suffocation, or "other bodily injury, caused by the collapse of a portion of the floor forming the approach to the Municipal Auditorium," the verdict stated. "Further was due to a decayed condition of the girders supporting said floor."

There was no mention of responsibility. The girder, which the experts say caused the crash, was set in the center of the pier section which went down in the midst of the British Empire day celebra-

Don. Breathing, it dropped several hundred persons, nearly all women and children, into a pit of jagged planks.

JAPAN IS TAKING GREAT PAINS IN PREPARING REPLY

Long Delay Is Ascribed to Diplomats' Determination to Cover All Phases.

'POLITE DISSENT' LIKELY

Believed to Hinge on American Statement That Webb Law Does Not Violate Treaty.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—No rejoinder, formal or informal, to the reply of the administration to the Japanese protest against California land legislation has been made, though the American note was dispatched days ago. Ambassadors of China, it is understood, has not received from Tokyo the instructions necessary for the preparation of his note to the State Department, which accounts for his nonappearance there yesterday, "diplomatic Thursday."

This delay, however, is not construed as an indication of any purpose on the part of the Japanese Government to drop the negotiations. As a matter of fact, it is known that extraordinary pains have been taken to prepare a diplomatic communication to cover every point set out in the last note of Secretary Bryan.

It is believed that there will be a polite dissent from the California declaration drafted into the State Department, that the Webb act is not in violation of the existing treaties. This will apply particularly to the Japanese claim that the California provision that Japanese may not inherit real property conflicts with other treaties than that of 1881.

Tokio advises regarding the conference of the Japanese Cabinet with the opposition leaders is understood here to forecast the presentation by the Japanese of a united front in all of the subsequent stages of the negotiations. This, while adding to the weight of the Japanese note, is expected to make easier the task of negotiation.

Japanese Cabinet Confers With Elder Statesmen.

TOKIO, Japan, May 30.—As the result of growing attacks by the opposition, the Japanese Government has taken the elder statesmen and other leaders, including Prince Taro Katsura, former Premier, into its confidence on the California question.

It submitted to them the text of America's reply to Japan's protest against the California alien land ownership legislation. The text of the reply sent by Washington emphasizes that the question at issue is an economic and not a political one.

It points out that the State of California insists that there has been violation of the American-Japanese treaty. After dwelling on the friendship of the United States for Japan the reply concludes that the courts of law are open and expresses the hope that the question may be solved in a manner satisfactory to Japan.

Tokio Newspapers Cull Americans a Heathen People.

TOKIO, Japan, May 30.—The newspapers Yordos severely attacks America and terms Americans a heathen people. "If any other power," it adds, "were treated like Japan, war would be inevitable, and if Japan tamely tolerates the same her national dignity is forfeited."

"American missionaries are not wanted here. They should teach their own country. Japan would not grieve if intercourse with America was suspended."

20 Rioters Against Katsura Ministry Executed.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—As a result of the riots in Tokyo last January against the Katsura ministry, 23 persons have been sentenced to prison terms ranging from one to 13 years, and 25 others were fined, according to advices received today by the Japanese American, a local publication.

Several persons were killed during the rioting and scores were injured.

HAVERFORD PULLED OFF ROCKS BY POWERFUL TUGS

American Liner Floated While Thousand Passengers Watch Operations From Shore.

QUEENSTOWN, May 30.—Several powerful tugs towed the American liner Haverford into harbor this morning. They released her from her dangerous position in Rocky Bay immediately west of Cork Head, at high tide at 1 o'clock. She had been lying on the rocks since early yesterday afternoon, when with 134 cabin and 850 steerage passengers aboard she went ashore in a dense fog. The wireless telegraph immediately reported her distress.

The rescued passengers, nearly a thousand in number, gathered today at various points of vantage along the shore to get a close view of the damaged steamer. All the baggage belonging to the cabin passengers has been landed. The passengers are to proceed to New York on the Baltic.

Eugene M. Foss, who owns a controlling interest in both of the firms.

BOY ELECTROCUTED ON CLIMBING POLE FOR KITE

Father Sees Boy Fall 50 Feet
After Touching a Live Wire and Carries Body Home.

In trying to reach his playmate's kite, entangled in electric wires at the top of a 50-foot pole, on Garfield avenue near Sarah street, James Curran Jr., 11 years old, touched a live wire and was electrocuted. His father, James Curran Sr., of 2409 West Belle place, who saw the accident, picked up the boy as he dropped to the pavement and carried him home.

The boy had been given a dime by his mother to buy some ice cream, and started to a confectionery. When he saw a group of boys lamenting the loss of the kite snared in the wires, he volunteered to climb the pole and release it. As he reached the top he braced himself on a crossbeam and reached for the kite. His hand came in contact with a heavily charged wire and he fell among the network of cables. A doctor who was called said that the boy had been killed instantly by the electric shock.

WHITELAW OPPOSES INITIATIVE IN NEW CHARTER FOR CITY

Former Freeholder Also Tells New Board He Objects to the Recall Proposition.

Robert H. Whitelaw, a member of the former Board of Freeholders in 1911, in a letter sent Friday to Jesse McDonough, chairman of the new Board of Freeholders, declares that, in his opinion, the initiative and recall should have no place in the proposed new city charter.

"The voters of the city should take enough interest in the primaries and election to make sure that the officers elected for four years shall be men of sufficient honesty and ability to discharge faithfully the duties of their office and serve out their full terms," the letter says.

Whitelaw recommends that the new charter provide that the funds for maintaining the city's elementary institutions be raised by a special tax in a manner similar to that by which the Public Library and Art Museum are sustained, and that a Board of Commissioners to serve without compensation be appointed by the Mayor.

He declares that the members of the Board should not "trim their conscience" to please special interests or political parties, and should prepare a charter in the interest of all the people. He opposes the commission form of government, and advises the Board that no "Bureau of Research of another city" can furnish a "theoretical machine-made" charter for this city.

Park Commissioner Dwight Davis told the board, in an address Thursday night, that the political boss still is necessary in St. Louis, and will be necessary as long as the cumbersome government makes it possible for a few men to dictate nominations.

Davis for Public Ownership. "The Twenty-ninth Ward is supposed to be one of the most intelligent wards in the city," he declared, "but, in my opinion, it has less political sense than any other ward."

Davis advocated the elimination of the House of Delegates, a charter provision allowing special assessments for parks and boulevards, the short ballot and public ownership of utilities.

James E. Allison, former chief engineer of the Public Service Commission, recommended in an address that a special franchise board be appointed to pass upon all franchises. He declared that in his opinion the Municipal Assembly is not competent to pass upon franchise details, and said that most of the franchises already enacted were given to speculators. He favors the underwritten franchise, he said, which cuts out the "water" and "blue sky" from the provisions. He recommended that the commission be composed of experts, who should receive fees of from $100 to $200 for each franchise considered.

Joy Opposes Merit System. Charles F. Joy, Recorder of Deeds, told the board that city jobs should be given to the party which elects the Mayor. He declared that the jobs belong to the party and should be given to it.

"The moment a merit system is adopted, get ready for the coming of a civil service pension list," he said.

Joy said that members of the House of Delegates should receive a salary of $2000 a year, and that both branches of the Municipal Assembly should be retained. If the large-salary system later results in creating a "kid-glove oligarchy," he stated, "it would be easy to reduce the salaries again and cut out the oligarchy."

The next meeting of the Freeholders will be held Tuesday afternoon, when the views of other men interested in public work will be heard.

A. G. Bullen and Miss Cora Pittman will read essays at the commencement exercises next Friday at Mary Institute.

Dr. and Mrs. Ellis Fischel, whose marriage took place Tuesday, are spending their honeymoon at Dr. and Mrs. Willard Bartlett's lodge about five miles below the Barracks on the Mississippi River. Dr. and Mrs. Bartlett will spend a few weeks there before going East for the summer.

FRIENDS THOUGHT

Five Years' Illness Caused
Mrs. Jenkins' Friends to Think She Could Not Recover—Old Lady
Thought Different.

"For five (5) years, I was not able to do any of my work," writes Mrs. Laurel Jenkins of this place, "and half of the time I was in bed."

"I suffered with womanly trouble, and would take such nervous spells I could not stand on my feet, and my friends thought surely I would die. I could hardly get out of bed, or walk a step."

"At last an old lady advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and now I can go most anywhere."

"Cardui certainly saved my life. Had you seen me before I began taking it, you would not think I was the same person."

"I had suffered for five years with womanly trouble, but Cardui made me well. I can't say too much for it."—Germantown, Tenn.

You need not be afraid to try Cardui, for in doing so, you are not experimenting with a medicine of doubtful merit. Cardui has been in use for more than fifty years, and its sale has steadily increased each year.

In this half century of time it has helped thousands and thousands weak, nervous women. It is purely vegetable, mild, harmless, and of proven value.

Try Cardui. It may be just the medicine you need.

If you've got to lay off a whole forenoon or afternoon to attend this sensational suit sale, BY ALL MEANS DO SO and DO IT TODAY. We hate the word "sensational"—but there isn't a word in the entire English language that can describe the actuality of this sale so well as that word. We prefer to appeal to your sense of business judgment rather than to your bump of sensationalism, but in order to bring home to the men of this city the full meaning of this sale, we must lean to the unusual. Every clothier in this whole town knows in his heart that this sale of finest suits from Chicago's finest custom grade maker Hirsh-Wickwire & Co. is THE BIGGEST AFFAIR THIS TOWN HAS SEEN IN MONTHS. Still we cannot prevent anyone from using the same arguments as we do. However, if you are smart—if you rely on your business acumen, plus our personal word regarding the values herein offered, you won't spend one cent for a suit UNTIL YOU COME HERE FIRST.

We pledge you on our honor and upon our reputation for integrity, that you cannot see such suits in such qualities and styles at such prices anywhere in all America right now. If ever we made a "scoop" in the apparel line THIS IS IT. Imagine if you can. 1000 De Luxe Suits, cut from fabrics rich as cream, tailored to a degree of perfection not attained outside of highest custom workmanship. Imagine if you can, ultra-fashionable clothes good enough for a Royal Prince—and clothes that ARE NEVER OUT IN PRICE AT ANY TIME—on sale here and NOW at actually less than cost of production. Every suit is from Chicago's finest maker. These magnificent garments are here, waiting for you to choose them at these unheard-of prices—actually July prices in the very heart of the season. Look and think hard.

THE attractions promised at the cabaret show Saturday afternoon and evening at the Cherry Carnival will be given at Forest Park Highlands will exceed anything in cleverness done by amateurs in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Hiltz are down for a real tango Argentine. This will be the first time Mr. and Mrs. Hiltz have appeared in public and they are said to be among the best dancers in town.

Eddie Limberg and Miss Anna Wright Bonolot, who also will dance in public for the first time, will dance the "trot."

Miss Dorothy Niedringhaus and Jim Platt will sing, and as they both sing well, their turn doubtless will be very good.

One of two other amateur dancers who have been dancing for charity all winter are also on the program for their special dances and besides there will be turns by some of the professionals who are playing in town this week.

The cabaret is in charge of Mmes. Charles Parsons Pettus, Hugh McKittick Jones, Joseph Wear, Lewis L. Rumsey, George W. Simmons and Alden Little and Mrs. Howard O'Fallon, who has charge of the tables.

Mr. and Mrs. William Griffith Molter of Hortense place have taken possession of the Shelby place on Woodlawn which they have leased for the summer. Their daughter, Mrs. Tankerville J. Drew, and her children are with them.

Miss Elizabeth Mary Brookes, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry S. Brookes of 3237 Lafayette avenue, will give a tea Saturday afternoon in honor of the class of 1913 at Mary Institute of which she is a member.

Misses Mary Bullen, daughter of Mrs.

AUSTRIAN TRAITOR ENDS HIS LIFE BY ARMY HONOR CODE

Charged With Selling Secrets to Russia and Loaded Pistol Is Left for His Use.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1913, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

VIENNA, May 29.—Extraordinary revelations of treachery carried on for years by a Colonel of the Austrian general staff, who sold secrets of vital importance to Russia, are made in the Military Gazette.

Col. Redl, one of the chief of the military secret service department, was summoned to Vienna from Prague, Bohemia, at the end of last week. During his absence search was made in his flat and a number of incriminating documents were found. Some of them showed that he had given a draft of the plans for simultaneous action by the Austrian and German armies against Russia in case of war to the Russian Government.

On receiving full confirmation the War Ministry sent to Redl two fellow officers. During the night they informed him of the charges against him. As he was unable to clear himself they warned him that they would return at daybreak to arrest him.

Pistol Left for Him.
On leaving the room one of the officers took a fully loaded pistol from his pocket with a book of instructions on how to use the weapon. He opened the book and placed it in front of Redl with a menacing glance.

Officers then mounted guard outside the room until the sound of a shot told them that Redl, who was only 41, had chosen "the only way open for an officer" in such disgrace.

They hastened into the room and ascertained that he really was dead and returned to the War Ministry to report.

The War Ministry determined to keep the matter secret and announced that the Colonel had ended his life as the result of insanity caused by overwork.

Report of Second Death.
The incident only became known when some members of Parliament demanded that the War Minister contradict reports concerning the death of Redl in order to clear his memory. Thereupon the authorities felt compelled to reveal the facts of the case.

In military circles it is declared that other military men are involved in the scandal and a report is current that another officer has shot himself.

ONE WOMAN AMONG 50 TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY

Mary Oliver Goes With Largest Party of Convicts—14 Deputies Aid Sheriff.

One woman was among the 50 prisoners taken Friday from St. Louis to the penitentiary at Jefferson City by Chief Deputy Sheriff Joseph Diekmann and 14 deputies. This is the largest number of persons taken to prison at one time from St. Louis in many years. The terms of the prisoners range from two years to life imprisonment.

Mary Oliver, who was convicted of stabbing to death Mrs. Magdalen Schnarr, wayward wife of a patrolman, was the lone woman in the crowd of prisoners. She was sentenced to 15 years. The testimony showed she and the Schnarr woman quarreled because of jealousy over Charles Drew, a teamster. Drew was sentenced to 25 years when the testimony showed he handed the knife to Mrs. Oliver with which Mrs. Schnarr was killed. He was among those taken up to begin his term.

Edward Schneider and his brother, August Schneider, each sentenced to two years' imprisonment, were handcuffed together in the line of prisoners. Edward Schneider was convicted of forging the name of indorsers to a note for a loan of $300 from the "Poor Man's Bank." His brother was convicted of retaining $250 given to him by W. H. Munson, a railroad clerk, to make a loan to another person on some furniture.

The prisoners were marched to Union Station from the city jail at Twelfth street and Clark avenue. They departed on two special cars on a Missouri Pacific train.

MAN, 90, HANGS SELF AS REUNION IS HELD

Alton Man Ends Life When Failing Eyesight Causes Him to Give Up Business.

Despondent because he had to give up his confectionery business as a result of failing eyesight, John H. Wutzler, 90 years old, hanged himself at his home, 237 State street, Alton, Thursday. A reunion was in progress at the Wutzler home and refreshments were about to be served when the aged man excused himself.

Wutzler's son, Benjamin Wutzler, and the latter's wife, of St. Louis, had gone to Alton to close the store and bring the couple to this city to live with them. The son said the father feared he was going to be put into an institution for the aged and this worried him.

BUFFALO KILLS BIG RIVAL

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 29.—"Comanche," a 200-pound buffalo bull, raised by Prof. William T. Honaday, president of the American Bison Society, as the finest specimen of the breed, was killed yesterday in a battle with a younger rival for the supreme prize.

Col. Trexler's herd at Schneekville, the victor, "Roaring Frank," much smaller animal, weighing about 160 pounds. He was spayed the older bull, however, and as in goring him the length of his three times.

REST IN TRIAL OF T. R. RIBEL SUIT FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Roosevelt Won't Address Veterans, Because of the "Red Liquor" Hearing.

MARQUETTE, Mich., May 30.—This being Memorial day, there was no session of court, and the next session in the trial of the $10,000 libel suit of Col. Roosevelt against George A. Newett, owner of the Ishpeming Iron Ore, who charged in an editorial that Roosevelt "gets drunk," will open at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. There will be a session of court Saturday afternoon. It is expected it will take another week to complete the case.

Col. Roosevelt had no set program for the day. He expressed regret that he could not address the veterans. He took the position that as a party to a suit pending he ought not to take any action which might be construed as unethical.

Col. Roosevelt slept to the hoarse bellying of a foghorn last night, a heavy mist having spread over the lake. At breakfast freshly caught rainbow trout were served, after which the Colonel went for a long automobile ride.

The jury exercised under guard, and a barber was brought in, who put the furors in trim for the resumption of the trial tomorrow.

Tracing T. R. Over World. Attorneys Pound and Van Benschoten for the plaintiff and Belden and Andrews for the defendant yesterday followed the Colonel's trail through nearly every state in the Union, across the Atlantic, through the Mediterranean Sea, the Suez Canal to Africa; through the wilds of that continent, back to Khartoum, through some of the capitals of Europe and back to Oyster Bay, figuratively smelling his breath for tracing of liquor.

Substantially, the testimony was a repetition of that recorded at previous sessions—the Colonel does touch wine, but so rarely and so lightly that he is, in the eyes of the witnesses, virtually a teetotaler.

Noted Men Testify. Those who testified were: Andrew W. Abele, a former railroad fireman of Ohio; former Judge A. Z. Elmer, disfranchised hundreds of Ohio voters for selling votes, when he was on the bench; Charles Willis Thompson, a New York newspaper man; James R. Garfield, Gifford Pinchot, Lawrence Abbott, owner of the magazine of which the plaintiff is one of the editors; Edward Heller, naturalist of the African hunting expedition; O. K. Davis, secretary of the National Committee of the Progressive party; Philip Roosevelt, whose father is a first cousin to the former President, and Edwin Emerson, a newspaper man, who was field clerk to the Colonel of the Rough Rider regiment.

Including witnesses already heard, and depositions and witnesses to come, the plaintiff's testimony as to his sobriety will cover his life from young manhood to the present time.

WEALTHY WIDOW'S SON HELD ON GIRL'S CHARGE

William Erhart Accused by Mildred Seago of Attack During Auto Ride.

William Erhart, son of Mrs. Bertha Erhart, a wealthy East St. Louis widow, was arrested in his automobile Friday on a warrant charging him with attacking Mildred Seago, aged 14 years, of 3226 Washington avenue, St. Louis.

The warrant charges that he invited the girl to go automobile riding with him, and that the attack was made on a road between East St. Louis and Allen's Grove.

Erhart is 24 years old, and is president of the Tri-City Packing Co. He told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he did invite the girl to take an automobile ride with him, and that she accepted. He said that he did not go outside of East St. Louis. He denied her charges.

—The Player-Piano That's Truly a Wonder

To hear and see the Manual will be a revelation to you of what is possible in player-pianos, for this instrument embodies all that other instruments lack—all that makes music beautiful, interesting, sublime—and that is our

—Accented Pedal Movement
—Graduated Pneumatic Action and —Interpretation Device

which enables anyone without a knowledge of music, without even knowing one note from another, to play the symphonies, sonatas, overtures, concertos of Beethoven, of Bach, of Wagner, as well as a master musician, and do just as artistically.

The Baldwin Manual

"The Player-Piano That Is A.I. but Human" combining the above features with the marvelous control over accompaniment and melody gives not only complete mastery of the piano to the vesting amateur, but readily lends itself to the individuality of the player.

You are invited to call at our salesrooms and hear the Manual. Visitors are cordially welcome at any time and demonstrations are gladly given without obligation on your part.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

ORGANIZED RAILROAD MEN'S CAPITAL.

The brief announcement from Detroit that St. Louis is to be the permanent meeting place for future conventions of the Order of Railway Conductors contains a statement that the conventions will hereafter be held at intervals of three instead of two years, and does not convey an accurate impression of local benefits expected from the change. These gatherings, which are largely attended by officials and members of the order, commonly last three weeks, and a new policy admitting the conductors of interurban lines will effect a considerable increase in the importance of the organization. The transfer to St. Louis from Cedar Rapids, Io., of the headquarters of the order is not a present expectation, but the establishment in this vicinity of a home for interurban conductors is an early possibility and is but one feature of a comprehensive plan entertained by the St. Louis Conventions Bureau.

Practically simultaneous with this year's meeting of the conductors at Detroit, the trainmen are meeting in San Francisco, the engineers and firemen in Washington and the switchmen at Houston, Tex. Next month the women's auxiliary of one of the great railroad brotherhoods—an organization to which important influence in preventing strikes and preserving industrial peace is attributed—will meet at Chattanooga. The action at Detroit will not, it is assumed, be without weight on other organizations of railroad employees, especially on the trainmen.

Virtually all the interests of these several brotherhoods are common. The probable effect of a common meeting place for their legislative conventions in drawing them into closer affiliation has long been appreciated. Only a glance at the railroad map is needed to show the advantages of St. Louis' geographical position in selecting a capital for the organized railroad men which shall be equally convenient for members in all sections of the country.

Place a flower in thought, if not in act, upon the grave of every soldier of the republic.

SHELEMAN AND SHOBER TESTIMONY.

In setting Col. Roosevelt's testimony in type one of our printers has made him say:
"When in town I usually, but not always, lunch with some members of the Outlook staff."

We hope that no members of our own staff have been lunching too well. Let us set the Colonel up very carefully while he is on the witness stand. His position is a very delicate one. He must not be made a victim of any such typographical tipness as this, for example:

"I went out to lunch with old Doc Lyman Abbott at the Waldorfs and we drank shone mulch with a big stick in it, if my memory serves me. We were having a little dishabille about shimpilled shelling when old Jake Rillish came in and joined us—good old shoul! He said I was the world's most useful chitkizen and I bought him a glass of sharshaparrilla. Pretty shoon Giff Plinch blew in and we shook for the drink and I think I took shone shoda water. I just hate whiskey. It makes me shick. Shometimes I drink a little white wine or a glass of champagne or a part of a min' sulep, but only when the doctor orders—I don't mean ol' Doc Lyman Abbott because he never orders." Et cetera, ad lib.

Our apologies to the Colonel for the typographical errors.

If the idea was to bring the Frisco securities down to a point where it would be easy to acquire them, one purpose of the receivership seems to be fulfilled.

MAKE THE SOBERN LAW EFFECTIVE.

A walk along "Commission Row" any hot summer afternoon will enable the fruit consumer to see displayed scores of unovered baskets of fruit, waiting for chance customers. The plea that screens are unnecessary because most of the commission business is done while the files are asleep supposes that fruit consumers never inspect the commission houses during the day and that the files shut fruit and produce displayed in front of and in commission stores in daylight.

We are also informed that electric fans are better than screens, anyway. But who ever saw an electric fan at work shooing flies in a commission house?

The Council should see to it that the screening bill exempts no one who deals in fruits or other produce so which flies love to congregate.

EAST AND WEST ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis and East St. Louis can never be united in one municipal organization because they are in different states, but they can be brought closer together in trade and social relations. They can unite in promoting interests and betterments that contribute to the welfare of both cities.

There is no subject so closely touches the common welfare of the two communities as that of transportation and free access from one city to the other. In distance from each other the two cities are near together. East St. Louis is as close to the business district of St. Louis as the greater part of St. Louis. All of East St. Louis is nearer than a large part of St. Louis. But in modes of access and in cost of transportation they are far apart.

There is not one direct street car connection between St. Louis and East St. Louis. There is not one free thoroughfare between the two cities. The monopoly policy of making the river the barrier against traffic in or out of St. Louis has resulted in an artificial division between the great population on each side of the river. A Chinese wall separates them. The municipal bridge, which was to break down the barrier, is suspended in the air by foolish squabbles over engineering problems and by demagogic politics.

The situation is ridiculous from one standpoint and tragic from another. It should be corrected as quickly as possible. It can be corrected whenever the business men of St. Louis and East St. Louis, who have so much at stake in the free development of trade relations, make up their minds that it shall be corrected.

There is no line of co-operative endeavor in which the allied business organizations of the two cities can accomplish more for the benefit of both than in breaking down dividing barriers and linking together the populations by cheap and convenient trolley transportation and free, accessible thoroughfares.

The good will meeting of business organizations within the St. Louis industrial district at the Coliseum tonight is an opportune occasion to take up this work. United effort on the part of these organizations would soon result in profitable improvements in transportation facilities and rates. This end is worth energetic effort.

No person of taste would object to the draping of the naked untruth.

PATRONS OF CULTURE.

These who have become accustomed to revere the high ethical purposes and civic motives of brewers as a class will be pained to hear a rumor that they are fostering lib clubs.

Brewers have often been patrons of the arts. They have fostered culture and fostered science. They have liberally coddled pretty much everything that tended to the uplift of beer-drinking man, and it would be a sad come-down to find them fostering institutions so, far beneath the level of art galleries, museums, scientific laboratories, opera houses and the other noble works with which they have been immemorially associated.

The refining and moral influence of beer would suffer no little if brewers did not hold themselves aloof from sordid and questionable associations.

Perhaps Editor Newett only thought it.

MR. PRIEST'S PREMATURE DEDUCTIONS.

Attorney H. S. Priest of St. Louis loses no time in making known his private deductions from the Frisco receivership. They show that the inevitable effect of the regulation of railroads must be disaster. Capital is protected up to the point where it seeks railroad investment. All business is halting because of legislative interference and control. Government policies that take cognizance of the profits railroad owners make are dishonest and immoral. So Mr. Priest says.

He is hasty in drawing conclusions. When the real causes of the insolvency are ascertained, it may be shown that what the Frisco suffered from was not enough Government regulation instead of too much. It is possible that the inside history of Frisco finance will furnish one of the most powerful sermons ever preached on the absolute necessity of public supervision of railroad properties for the protection of investors as well as the public.

Mr. Priest may be premature in urging "emancipation from legislative influence." One of the results of the Frisco clash may be legislation more direct and minute and drastic than anything so far known for the hobbling of the railroad exploiters.

New York's artistic monument ought to set a fashion in remembering the Maine throughout the country.

REAL ARTISTIC TEMPERAMENT.

How engaging the Wandschneiders have proved to be, with their simple good taste, good manners and good humor. St. Louis is indebted to them for an infusion of sweetness and light, and we venture to say they brighten existence wherever they happen to be. The point is, we believe they will win, as they deserve to. Herr Wandschneider's design is likely to prevail.

Had he, on landing in America and learning that his design, after acceptance, had been arbitrarily rejected, given vent to one of those temperaments which are often euphemized as artistic temperaments, the injustice which seems to have been done to him would have excited less friendly sympathy.

So long as kisses go by favor in a very human world, good manners will pay. In fact, it is best to have the good manners on your side in the very hardest fought controversy. Good manners are well worth while even in war.

ST. LOUIS IN CHARTER EVOLUTION.

A reminder of the time when St. Louis was in advance of all other American cities in its recognition of an essential principle of municipal government was given by Mayor Foster of Cleveland in a speech at the City Club. The right of framing its own charter, secured to St. Louis nearly 40 years ago, was an innovation almost as startling as the later innovation of city government by commission. The charter of 1875 was the model of its time.

But having gained the power to determine what the form of their city government should be, and having made one admirable exercise of that power, St. Louisans failed to show the progress that was to be expected of them. It is a fact that other cities not yet emancipated from the state capital, which had to beat down the opposition of state bosses and force their desires on unsympathetic legislatures, have made charter improvements much more rapidly than St. Louis, which had charter improvement in its own hands.

Much new machinery in municipal administration has been thoroughly tested in these 40 years. Ideas which are no longer experimental are at the disposal of the Board of Freeholders. St. Louis must again be placed in the advance. The task of the Freeholders is not only to build a sound charter framework, but to educate the voters for an intelligent use of the valuable right of approval bestowed on them a generation ago.

As the number of survivors of the Civil War diminishes, the nation's appreciation of the heroic services of the dead grows.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Planter on Sugar Tariff.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Having just read your editorial, "Hothouse and Other Sugar," I desire to correct a few of the statements made therein.

While it is true that sugar can be produced cheaper in foreign countries than in Louisiana, it cannot be denied that by removing the tariff from sugar, the industry will be killed in this State, and the Democratic party will break its pledge of "no legitimate industry shall be destroyed," which referred directly to the sugar interests. I do not deny that sugar is not the best crop for this section of the United States. I myself firmly believe that other crops can be raised more advantageously than cane, but the fact remains that sugar cane has been here for 125 years, and that the vast majority of people here know nothing of any other crop. We have our factories with their immense and expensive equipment, our implements that can be used only for cultivating sugar cane, and thousands of dollars invested in mules. The first and second we would have to sell off as "junk," and of the latter we would have to give over half away, as only about half would be needed to cultivate any other crop.

Now as to your editorial mistakes: You say Louisiana cane has but 6 or 7 per cent sucrose (sugar). I myself have been in a factory for a few years past, and we always found at least 10 per cent sucrose, and sometimes 12 and 13 per cent. This is no more than adjacent factories and plantations are doing. You say Louisiana cane is planted annually. Investigate and you'll find that we plant one-third of our acreage every year. This gives us first year, second and third year cane as "stubble" every year. Some plantations even keep stubble for four or more years, depending on the fertility of the land.

Louisiana raw sugar seldom costs 2½ cents per pound; in first-class factories, you say, 3½ cents. In fact, it never costs over 16 per cent to manufacture, and an average of 100 pounds of sugar is made from one ton. Then is added the cost of producing the cane, which is $1.50 to $2 in this locality, depending on season, etc.

I do not desire to discuss the right to tax the people of the United States in order to preserve the Louisiana interests, but the fact remains that after it is all over the United States will not "save" all they think they will. The trusts will control and set the price of sugar, and you consumers will get "stuck" for all you are worth. It's a pity the people of the country want to tear down an old and established industry instead of trying to encourage and protect all agricultural interests of the whole country.

Mr. Hardwick's statements can better be termed "hot air" than hothouse. I'd suggest that all interested would send to Washington and get literature on the subject.

PRESLEY K. EWING.
"Greenwood" Plantation, Assumption Parish (Country), Louisiana.

Responsible City Government.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Why isn't our city governed on a sensible and economical plan like Mr. Richard S. Childs recommends?

If we had the recall, the short ballot, municipal ownership of public utilities, Louisiana could have a pension after 25 years of faithful service, we could get honest, capable men to serve the city instead of a horde of politicians. The present disgusting spectacle of the Municipal Assembly and the Mayor fighting and vilifying each other instead of passing the laws they promised the people shows the necessity of responsibility to the people. And the above system would force it.

Pay Living Wages.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The revelations in the wage inquiry prompts me to ask: How can a human being enjoy himself knowing that his help is starving and going to ruin on the small wages he pays? Every investigator knows that the cheap and worst sort of meals cost $2.15 per week; the worst room $1.50, and car fare 60 cents per week, so what does a woman have left out of $6 for clothes, doctor bills, insurance, laundry, etc.? The big sum of 6 cents!

Isn't it time a wage was forced by law? And knowing that it is impossible to get women witnesses because they are afraid of losing their jobs, the investigating committee should demand the books of employers in every kind of business to prove what wages are paid their women help and a minimum wage of at least $9 a week established by law to protect them. And there should be no discrimination in favor of lower wages to "girls at home," because it would give the "girls at home" all the work and send the other girls and women to destruction, any girl is liable to lose her friends and home any time.

A WOMAN WORKER SEVEN YEARS.

The British Suffrage Army.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I think that "Briton" in the Sunday Post-Dispatch makes several mistakes. The titled and wealthy women of England comprise but a small part of the suffrage army. In that great parade when women from all parts of the island marched by the thousands down the streets of London, all professions and trades were represented. There were women from the coalpit, ironworkers and factory girls. There were domestic servants, fish-mongers and barmaids.

England's women have long had full share in the life of the nation. "Briton" admits that the domestic policy of England is corrupt and inadequate. If women, upon whom rests one-half the control, have proven themselves competent and honorable, why think they will cease to remain so when the scope of their activities has widened? He says that the reason of England's refusal is owing to the colonial possessions. He forgets that it is the colonies that have made England great, and in nearly every colony that flies the English flag there the women share and share alike with men. Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand through women's help have given model governments to the world. Even where the English flag flies over its portion of Darkest Africa it has met rebuke for the women there are politically free. In these intercolonial affairs that "Briton" thinks so important he is governed by the opinion of colonial women while he denies the same privilege of the women at home. Is this some far-sighted or just? Is he willing to admit that English women are inferior to those abroad?

NEW SONGS FOR OLD.

O, where have you been,
Billy B, Billy B?
O, where have you been,
Charming Billy?
I have been around the West
Seeing Johnson and the rest.
On a very pressing quest,
For Mr. Wilson.

Did you fix it all up,
Billy B, Billy B?
Did you fix it all up,
Charming Billy?
Yes, I did, in your mind—
They were very sweet and kind,
But they're obdurate, I find,
In California.

Do you think there'll be war,
Billy B, Billy B?
Do you think there'll be war,
Charming Billy?
No, I do not think there will;
How Japan could pay the bill
With a badly busted till,
I can't imagine.

Are you pleased with your job,
Billy B, Billy B?
Are you pleased with your job,
Charming Billy?
I'm so happy, I'm afraid—
I make all the speeches made,
And I wouldn't truly, trade
With anybody.

COME, MR. DAVIS!

It scarcely seems fair in Park Commissioners Davis to tell the Board of Freeholders that the Twenty-eighth Ward has less political sense than any other ward in the city. The Twenty-eighth Ward almost stood alone in support of the various bond issues proposed for the completion of the Free Bridge, and it is probably the only part of town now where a similar proposal could get a majority vote. It has great patience, and few cracks. The mere fact that he can say such things about it without danger of making anyone mad indicates what kind of a ward it is.

THE WHOLE TRUTH.

Father was on the warpath and when at last he came across Willie in an odd corner of the garden the engagement commenced.
"Willie," demanded Mr. Smith, "have you eaten any of those large dessert pears I left in the cupboard?"
"Pa," replied the young hopeful, "I cannot tell a lie. I have not touched one."
"Then how is it," asked the parent, "that I found these three pear cores in your bedroom and there is only one pear in the cupboard?"
"Father," said Willie, with an eye on the garden gate—"father, that's the one I didn't touch."—Answers.

Not Well Pleased.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.
"I had to kill my dog this morning," said the Boob.
"Was he mad?" asked the Cheerful Idiot.
"Well, he didn't seem any too well pleased," replied the Boob.

Aren't you wearing your lodge pin any more?

"No. So many women glared at me in the suspicion that I am the fellow who keeps their husbands out late that I took it off."

ABOUT THE FRISCO.

Probably if the Frisco had started its passenger trains out of Union Station, instead of leaving the passenger to find them somewhere out in the yards, it would not now be in the hands of receivers. All the railroads running out of Union Station engage in this exasperating practice, and if they all resort to receiverships before they get done it will not surprise the community a bit.

The truth of the matter is that there is enough traffic for all the railroads, but it can't find the trains. Enough of it to retire all the bonds sold in France and other speculative quarters is left at the station. Some of the passenger trains barely come under the trainshed. They are anywhere from two to three blocks from the point where the passenger enters from the midway. The chance that those trains will make any money is just about equalled by the chance that the people who want to ride on them will ever get on them. When the French committee of inquiry comes over, we mean to have it in and tell it about this situation. It is enough to bust any railroad. All in the world that is keeping the rest of them up here is the 20 cents a ton they are getting for hauling coal over from East St. Louis.

THE FUELED BATTLE FLAGS.

The years have rolled on and the soldier sleeps:
No bugle call now stirs his spirit to battle;
All the camp fires are out and the grave mutesly keeps
The great heroes of war and the musketry's rattle.
The battle-flags and the time-rusted swords,
Are the relics of days that have passed into story;
All the sabers are sheathed and we come with our words.
Tho' but feebly to add to a true soldier's glory.

The ground where he fought and the place where he died
Has been tended and tiled by the plow of the yeoman;
And hushed is the cannon and the dark battle's tide
On the place where may now tread a child or a woman.
Oh, why was the conflict so bitter and long?
May the sun cease to shine o'er we have such another!
Let us clasp hand with hand, make a bond that is strong,
And forever pledge peace between man and his brother.

All our sires are passing; let us now as their sons
Make a country that's great, not with war and its guns;
But a land that's united, and for this let us pray—
That we'll never again have the Blue and the Gray.

P. FRANKLIN HUNTER.

Paris, Tenn.

TURKISH FASHION NOTES.

H. G. Dwight in May Asiatic.

The nails of Mistress Hyacinth are almost always reddened with henna—and very clean. The henna sometimes extends to her fingers as well, to the palms of her hands or even—if she happens to be advancing in years—to her hair. There is no attempt to simulate a youthful glow. The dyes are plentifully applied to make a rich coral red. In other points of fashion Mistress Hyacinth is more catholic than her sisters of the West. What the ladies of Paris wear must be worn by the ladies in London, St. Petersburg, New York or Melbourne. But no such slavishness obtains in Thrace, where every village seems to have modes of its own. Mistress Hyacinth seems to prefer a good baggy trouser, cut out of some flannel print, with no lack of red about it. Over this she should wear in the street a shapless black mantle that often has a long sailor collar and she covers her head in various ingenious, but not very decorative, ways.

The consort of Mistress Hyacinth, as is general in the East, is outwardly and visibly the decorative members of the family. He inclines less to bagginess than she, or than his brother of Asia. He affects a certain cut of trousers which is popular all the way from the Nile to the Adriatic. This trouser, preferably of a pastel blue, is bound in at the waist by a broad red sash, which also serves as pocket, bank, arsenal and anything else you please. Over it goes a short souve jacket, with more or less embroidery, and round Mr. lord's head twirls a picturesque figure turban with a tassel dangling in front of one ear.

MOLTKE-LIKE FINANCIERS.

From the Louisville Times.
When J. P. Morgan died the wise ones in banking circles predicted that, of all his partners, H. P. Davison was the one on whom his mantle would be most likely to fall. Not if the interview in the New York Herald may be accepted as authentic. If not quite so tactful as Moltke, who could be "silent in seven languages," J. P. M. knew when to hold his tongue. Mr. Davison, on the other hand, chatters as irresponsibly as the author of "Frisco Finance"—only differently.

Embarrassment of the Krupps.

From the Boston Transcript.
A sharp English lawyer who made a specialty of insolvency proceedings once observed to a client that keeping books was one of the worst habits a business man could fall into. The Krupps of today must be somewhat of this opinion about correspondence, since the discovery of a letter written by the Krupps of 1868 recommending his guns to Napoleon III as just the things the French army needed. Letters are always turning up at the most inopportune times for their writers, as several American statesmen have doubtless reflected.

Professional Nemesis.

From the Kansas City Star.
One Louis W. Brandeis is making much of a reputation in the Nevada business. Those having Nemoising to do will do well to call on Mr. Brandeis.
No Hindu War Scare.
From the Spokane Spokesman.
A Hindu of high caste has been admitted to citizenship in Spokane, Wash. It is pleasing to know there is not going to be a Hindu war scare.

HEALTH TIPS.

ONE FROM THE COUNTRY.—Write Health Commissioner, city hall, about the odor of dogs kept in living rooms. Animals kept in such a place are a source of disease.

SERENA.—More than half the cases of ascema can be cured. Many more still can be made comfortable. To cure a case the first necessity is to study the why of the trouble. "Busy a Little Manual on the 'Care of the Skin'" says: "The ascema is a matter of determining its cause." He further says that the most frequent causes of lying cause is disturbance of the digestion. Have your physician carefully study your case and find the cause of your ascema, and then map out a policy for you. Then follow it persistently. A soothing saline will be of little service.

AIKENPANE.—A soft-corn with sharp, prominent edges, as well as well may be had for soft corns powdering common chalk and putting between the toes. Even when the corn has formed an abscess this is a remedy sure to avail.

THE CORN.—The corn is a disease that is liquid only aggravates the trouble. A woman writes: "My husband suffered under corns for a long time. A soft corn between the toes until one day a friend told him to touch it with a few drops of turpentine night and morning and keep a little piece of absorbent cotton between the toes. He did so, and after a few applications the terrible tormentor was killed and removed and he no longer has any fears of soft corns."

LAW POINTS.

A. B.—Circuit license $300, and $50 a day for each day in excess of a week. No tax on the parade.

JOHN.—You may add two letters to your name without any legal process. If you choose, you may have the change made by the Circuit Court.

L. J. B.—If you work for the city, you must work under a contract or agreement you make. If injustice is done you, see the Mayor.

C. E. B. H.—You may marry at once after your divorce. However, never, ever, let the judge consider you married until the divorce decree is entered.

LONDON.—In all states and territories except Alaska and New Mexico, marriage license is required. We don't know of any other states that require a license in Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa.

K. G.—You cannot marry if your husband is alive. It is impossible to find him, he is civilly dead; but even then it would be advisable to get a divorce.

IGNORANT.—Without your consent, neighbor cannot occupy the corner lot in trucking his wall. You might call the police. However, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" is the moral law.

SURBIBER.—There are employers whose promises are as good as air. They have kept their word. Your employer may keep his. Use your own judgment. Of course, the law is on your side, but it is cutwinded in 5 years, note in 10. We cannot undertake to advise you.

T. T. and MAY.—A lawyer writes: As to bigamy, etc., upon common-law marriage, no divorce is possible. This and many divorces have been granted upon such marriage. They are just as legal as any other. If you are married, see State vs. Jenkins, 139 Mo., and State vs. Hannsberg, 181 Mo. (We don't know bigamy laws of other states.)

MISCELLANEOUS.

NAOMA M. R.—Try phoning sissibest companies.

J. M. M.—Edwardsville Fire Club, Charles Fiegenbaum.

ED R.—There is no such designation as "Christian Jew." A Christian may become a Jew or a Jew a Christian; one cannot be both in the full sense of either.

L. J. W.—We do not make such recommendations as you suggest. Two years ago we advised you to get your money for special shoes made by alleged skillful makers.

CONFESSION.—Confessures. Especially where horses have been for some time, are the best locations in the woods or shady places. The best museum season is either in fall or spring, in clear mild weather, and early in the morning.

B. W.—Comptroller Player reports St. Louis' bonds, including the city bonds, $2,552,000; municipal works, $2,444,000; general municipal purposes, $1,160,000. Total, $6,156,000. Twelve million six hundred and seventy thousand dollars of St. Louis bonds may be issued without exceeding the limit. The State Constitution authorizes the issue of bonds for improving the city, but not for the vote of the people of the city.

OLD SUBSCRIBER.—The average duration of human life is about 75 years. One-quarter of the people on the earth die before age 4, one-half before age 16, and only one-fourth live beyond 40 years of age. A New York life table says that a child under 5 years of age at present may reasonably look forward to a life of 52 years, while at 10 years and a child of that age could expect to live only 41 years.

THE BILL COOK

McINTYRE'S departure leaves a vacancy, but the new clerk won't take the bread out of another's mouth.

By FRANK M. O'BRIEN.

It was a proud day for me when I entered the local freight office of the Zowie Central Railroad to work myself up from the lowest position to be vice-president and general manager. I was 18 years old and stuffed with ideals and ambition, vim and vigor. I knew the railroad business was a great business and I would make myself great enough to sit on one of its thrones.

I did no sitting on thrones or otherwise—the first day. The freight agent at Winsfield street turned me over to Eddie, the real office boy. "Here is the new bill-cooker," he said; "be easy with him at first, but not too easy."

"All right, Mr. Goll," said Eddie. Then Eddie turned on me with a look of ineffable address, which I interpreted many days afterward.

"All you do this morning is to clean and fill all the ink wells," he said, "and bring down some tissue books from the attic and stamp grain cards. While you do the ink wells I'll set up the stamps for you. This afternoon I'll teach you to cook bills."

"Cook bills?" I asked wonderingly. "Yes," said he. "It ain't hard to learn, but I'll be glad to have someone around here besides myself who can do it successfully."

Cooking bills proved to be important and intellectual. You open a big book of tissue paper at the proper page, place thereon a sheet of oiled paper, then—

Oh, first you take a mess of ink-looking cloth, soak the size of the tissue page, soak them in water that has been used until the human nose can no longer tolerate it, and run them through a wringer so as to get them just so wet and no wetter. If you get the cloth too dry, the oiled paper will take carbolic acid; if too wet, hydrocyanic.

You place a properly wet cloth by the oiled sheet herebefore mentioned, lay thereon four, five or six sheets of yellow tissue paper, according to the number of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and then very carefully lay a way-bill face down. Put in another sheet of oiled paper and proceed as above or else reach for your hat and run. Personally, I should advise the latter course.

When the book is so fat that you can scarcely close it—you do close it. Then, instead of letting it stand in a cool place for two hours, you put the book in a large press and cry for help. You and the others screw it down and in 15 minutes it is cooked.

This brings us nearer to the bananas and Charlie McIntyre's silk hat, much as you may doubt it.

I developed typhoid, due, I felt, to the fact that some meat described on the way-bill was tainted. The agent said it came from playing ball during lunch hour. Any good physiologist would put the seal of distrust on both explanations. So I had a nice vacation, as the other employees described it, with a temperature not often above 106. The company did not pay me while I was away, because typhoid patients do not eat. Besides, I must have saved enough of my salary of $15 a month—in February, that's more than 50 cents a day—to allow for every luxury.

One more jump and we will reach the silk hat.

When I tottered back from my jolly little typhoid vacation, Mr. Goll told me that I was to cook no more bills. "Charlie McIntyre is leaving," he explained, "and I'll give you a chance at the city bill desk. You're not strong enough to copy bills, anyway, and the auditor has been kicking about your tissues."

This hurt my pride, but I kept silence. Charlie McIntyre's job was one which entitled the holder to a seat on a high stool. He had only to make out bills for freight received for local merchants and when the freight came along, notify the merchants. It was a clean job, with no evil-looking clothes to write. It paid $30.

Eddie congratulated me, but bemoaned the idea of breaking in a new boy to cook.

Love and Courtesy

By BETTY VINCENT.

To Make Her Care.

OW can a man induce a girl to care for him?

In my opinion there's no method equal to the possibly trite and old-fashioned one of caring a very great deal for the girl—and showing it. I don't mean that you must spend a great deal of money on her, particularly if you haven't it to spend. Some young men do their courting with their pocket-book; but these are generally married for their money and not for themselves. Being in love and showing it is more than just being a good spender. The true lover displays a personal devotion to the comfort and happiness of the lady of his heart. And I am inclined to think that if he doesn't win her nothing can.

Love or Nothing.

L. Q. writes: "Should a girl have something more than a calm, stately affection for the man she has promised to marry?"

She certainly should.

The Danger.

L. met a man every morning on my way to business. He bowed to me and I replied. Now I find that he is a divorced man. What shall I do? Would it be rude to pass him without recognition?

No, for you should never have tolerated his advances in the first place. Now you see the danger of such things.

DIVERSIONS OF A DEBUTANTE

4—Today She Goes in for Cooking.

Drawn for the Post-Dispatch By MARGUERITE MARTYN

"COOKING is a rare and difficult accomplishment almost impossible of attainment in our most exclusive schools," says the Debutante. "Having discovered in an ancient volume during some research work, that some of the most famous belles of history included this primitive device in the most artful of their wiles, I ventured to try it one evening. Crude as were my efforts, it turned out to be quite the most effective thing I've done this season. What simple soul creatures men are!"

ONE WAY OF WINNING

A DOMESTIC dialogue in which the wife displays a little guile and husband retaliates.

By ALMA WOODWARD.

Mr. Gray is finding flaws in the Government, via the evening paper. Mrs. Gray absorbed in a $3 fashion book, wondering how she can transfer the whole of it to a 15-cent pattern she's just bought. The phone rings.

MR. G.: I'll bet that's the phone. Mrs. G. (brilliantly): Well, suppose you go and find out. Central'll tell her we don't answer in a minute.

MR. G. (apologetically): As if I care. I wouldn't give you 5 cents to talk to her, anyway. But I guess I'll answer it. "Not what it's cracked up to be," he replied, solemnly.

"Where is your silk hat?" I inquired. "They do not wear them in the New York offices," he replied sadly. "I learned that that is done only in London. I have come back to see whether Mr. Goll will give me a job."

"I know he will," said I. "He will give you your old job if you hurry. I am not going to stay, even though Mr. Goll has me booked for nearly 12 years. The idea of becoming general manager has become odious. I will not take the bread out of any man's mouth."

THE STORIES OF FAMOUS NOVELS

"TRILBY" was one of the first best sellers and was George Du Maurier's masterpiece.

TRILBY OFFERALL was the orphaned daughter of an Irish ne'er-do-well. Left to shift for herself, she had become a model in Paris' Latin Quarter.

She was big, beautiful, wholesome—a girl whom nature had intended for something more decent than the life into which her environment had tossed her.

Among the artists for whom she posed were three Englishmen who shared a studio in the Quarter, and who were known by the nicknames of "The Laird," "Taft," and "Little Billee." They were different from the down-at-heel, unwashed art students Trilby had known; and she spent all her spare time with them.

Little Billee—whose real name, by the way, was William Bagot—was the son of a prim English widow, and he knew almost nothing of the world. He proceeded to fall violently in love with Trilby. Nineteen times he proposed to her. And though she loved him, nineteen times she refused him.

Among the nondescript Bohemians who frequented the studio was Svengali, a Pole. He was a musician to his fingertips, was gifted with hypnotic power, had a marked aversion to bath-tubs, and was openly an admirer of Trilby. He used to amuse himself by making her sing. She had a glorious voice, but was tone-deaf; and her singing was a horrible thing to hear.

At last Little Billee, on his twentieth birthday, proposed to her. Trilby, who had long ago given up her studio life and had returned to England. At last they came back together to Paris on a visit to look over scenes of their student days. There they heard of a wonderful soprano who was to make her Paris debut that night and whose fame was already sweeping through Europe.

The trio went to the Cirque des Basili-bazouks, where she was to sing. The moment they entered the theater they recognized the conductor of the orchestra on the stage. It was Trilby.

When Svengali had carried Trilby away, five years earlier, he had trained her wonderful voice, note by note; hypnotizing her so that she sang according to his own perfect musicianly art. At each concert she was under this hypnotic spell. The music was Svengali's soul, finding expression through her phenomenal vocal cords. The result was such singing as Europe had never before heard.

In a memorable trance Trilby walked onto the stage and began to sing. She carried the audience by storm. She sang such simple melodies as "Ben Bolt" and "Au Clair de la Lune," but she breathed into them an inspiration that transfused and glorified the old airs.

The three artists, ignorant of the hypnotic spell, leaned far forward in their box, marveling that the tone-deaf Trilby could produce such music.

In the middle of the concert Svengali chanced to raise his eyes. His gaze met Little Billee's. The shock of the unexpected sight was too much for Svengali; whose heart and entire system were already undermined. He sank back, dying. At once Trilby was released from his power, and instantly her power of song deserted her.

From Geo. Du Maurier's "Trilby." Billee heard the story of the past five years. But he had found Trilby too late. Svengali's influence removed, she collapsed; and, despite all that could be done to win her back to health and normal mind, she died.

Had to Think Quickly.

BALLADS BY A BACHELOR GIRL

VERSE impressions of one who has escaped, or defied matrimony, written for the Post-Dispatch

By HELEN ROWLAND.

BACK TO THE HOME!

I KNOW a little bachelor, with lots and lots of pelf,
And all the pennies that he gets he spends upon himself;
But oh, how he CAN moralize! And oh, how he DOES pine
For the "sweet old-fashioned woman," and extol the "clinging vine!"
And when, each night, he meets "the boys," where golden breakers foam,
He cries in tones dramatic, "Woman's place is in the HOME!"

I know a lot of lovely maids, oh, quite a score or more;
And each would make a charming wife for this same bachelor;
But the "horrid things" INSIST on trotting downtown every day,
And slaving in an office—just to keep the wolf away.
They SHOULD be darning someone's socks or knitting baby-shoes.
Their place is "in the home," of course—somebody's home—but WHOSE?

I know a girl of scarce sixteen, who rouses me to scorn.
She never stays at home at all, but trudges off each morn
And pounds a little type-machine—oh, "just to pass the time!"—
And help her mother pay the rent. Such jolly is sublime!
Someone should really tell her to her pretty little face
That girls were made for "ornaments." The HOME is Woman's place!

I live, myself, within a big, luxurious hotel;
And, when I want my dusting done, I simply ring a bell.
I never do a single thing, but SCRIBBLE all day long.
I know, alas, this "idle" life is very, very wrong.
I should be doing fancy work, or polishing my nails,
But how I'd pay my bills that way—well, there my fancy fails!

What ARE the women coming to—to go at such a pace!
The "sweet old-fashioned girl" sat 'round and just massaged her face,
Worked cushion-tops, and curled her hair, and gossiped by the hour;
But lo, the modern woman goes at sixty-five horse-power!
Ah, well, I trust that some of them will read this little "pome,"
And realize, at last, that "Woman's place is in the HOME!"

Then Katy will not come back each day to put away my clothes,
And who will write my quips for me—well, Heaven only knows!
The typist and the laundry-maid, the waitress and the clerk
Will stay at home, like ladies, then, and do "a woman's work,"
And all the men will gather where the golden breakers foam—
And wonder WHO on earth will do the work outside "the HOME!"

"Remember it's Little General Bread you're going after."

Little heads often forget the name of the bread they are told to get. Somehow, when they reach the store, they "just can't remember." Impress the name carefully upon the mind of your little boy or girl whenever you send for

LITTLE GENERAL BREAD
5 AND 10 CENT LOAVES.

It would even repay you over and over to write the name on a slip of paper. For then you'd make sure of getting a clean, wholesome loaf—a loaf you've never seen the like of for goodness.

First in Line.

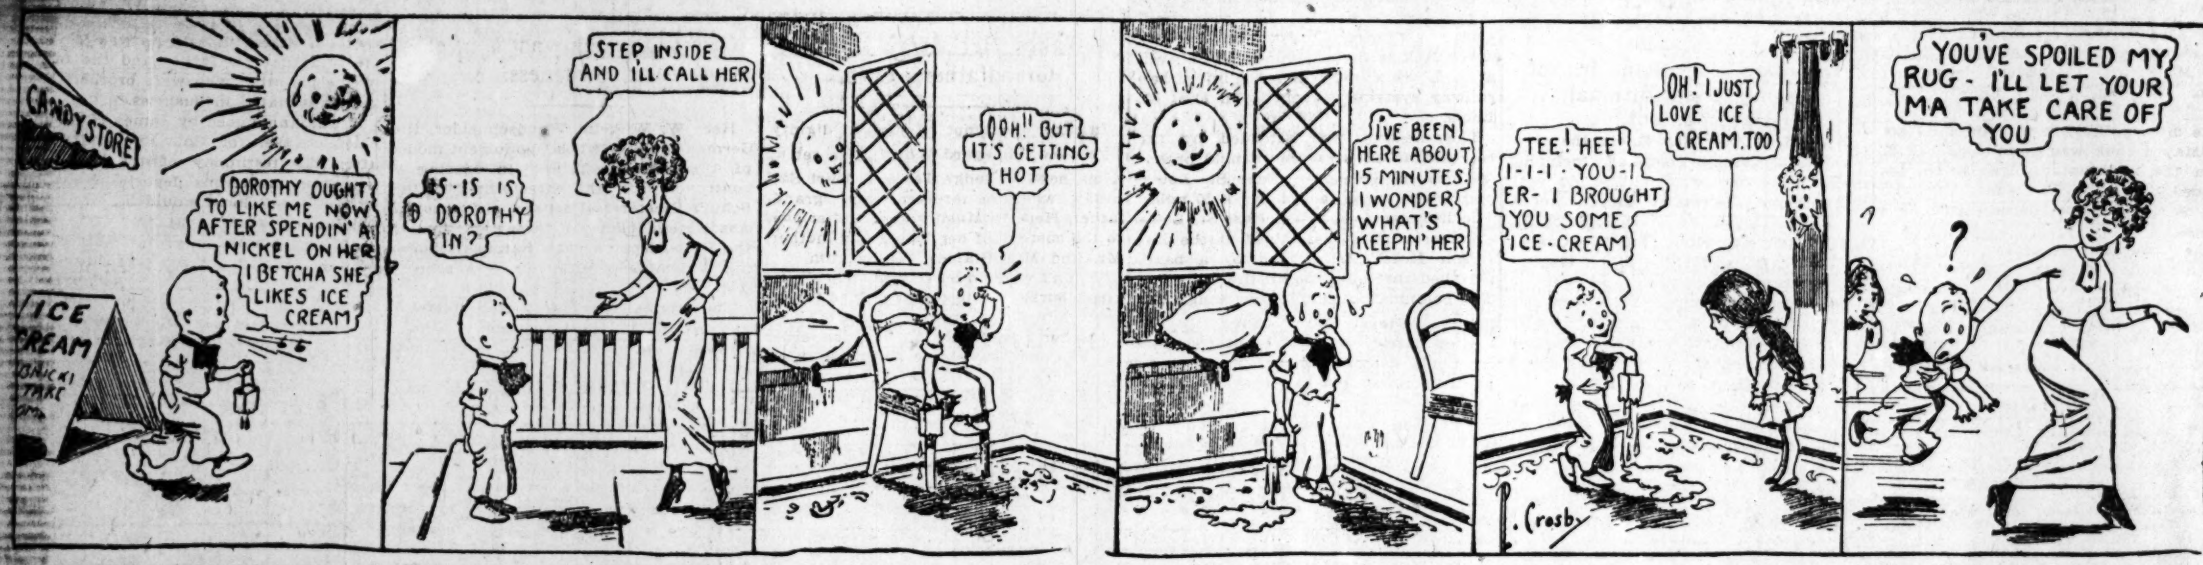

URING the Roland B. Moineaux case the late Gov. Black of New York had occasion to deprecate the praise of a certain witness. "Oh we can all," he said, "find some viewpoint or other wherefrom to lavish superlatives. I was once examining a young man who had applied to me for the place of stenographer. "What State are you from?" I asked. "I'm from the first State in the Union, sir," he replied. "New York State, eh?" "No, sir; Alabama, sir." "But," said I, "Alabama isn't the first State in the Union." "Alphabetically speaking, sir; alphabetically speaking," said the young man.

Rearrange This Headline:

SRNIOGSENISEXOS. HE "printer's devil" was carrying a galley on which was set a headline to be used in the morning paper over a political story from the Washington correspondent. He stubbed his toe, the galley fell to the floor and the headline was hopelessly "pled." The boy picked up the type and put it back in the galley haphazard, where it appeared as it is shown above. Can you reset the line so that it will spell the words of the headline? Try.

A Better Way.

N elderly Boston widow had been having much trouble with his cook, who was very careless in her preparation of his meals. Finally the worm turned when, one morning, his first spoonful of oatmeal yielded a miniature photograph of the cook herself. "Tabitha," he said when she came to the table with the bacon and eggs, "if you're bound to get sentimental, I'd much rather you'd make me your offering in a locket!"

ONE OF THE FIRES OF YOUTH. PROF. J. M. GOOD convinced a party of friends that he is more than a "book scientist." The arisema triphylum was under discussion when Prof. Good took the floor to relate this experience: "This is one of the first plants I learned thoroughly. When I was a schoolboy, a chum called: 'Jim, want a bite of turnip?' Of course I did, and he gave it to me. Before the fire ceased in my lips and gums the root, leaf, flower and stem of the Indian turnip were indelibly written on my brain." "A very piquant explanation," remarked a fellow scientist.

ask for subscriptions. "Yes, I am foolish to be so kind-hearted," replied Mrs. Stryver. "I have been everywhere this morning getting dollar donations and I ruined a tire that will cost Mr. Stryver $80 and my chauffeur broke one of the lamps of the machine running one of the lamps on your curb. One gets no thanks, and one is at constant expense. But then one's duty to society—you know!" Mrs. Jarr said she knew and allowed herself to be coaxed out of the dollar. She would have liked to use to buy flowers for herself. "That is real sweet of you. This makes $4 I have collected myself," said Mrs. Stryver, "and if you will put on your things and go and pick me to a few more places we will buy some flowers and take them to some poor people in the next block." Mrs. Jarr assented and in response to his persistent clamorings, Master Willie was permitted also to go along. By the time Mrs. Jarr had properly attired herself and by the time Master Jarr was furnished up and by the time they had all stopped at Mrs. Mudridge-Smith's for tea and had secured a few more donations from unwilling friends it was getting toward evening. They finally wound up at a florist's and bought some potted plants and were then driven to some tenement houses near the coal yards by the river. A red faced man appeared at the first door they knocked. "Take away the posies," he said coldly. "I've sold out my flower route and I'm going to drive an ice wagon. I've got a cellar full of geraniums and I am giving them to the neighbors."

Chance for Fame.

British Protest.

OUR ashes haven't been collected in a week," declared the London Housewife. "Is that so?" demanded the London householder angrily. "It is. And if I were you, I should protest." "I shall protest. I'll set fire to the postoffice as I go downtown."

Master Willie passed the departing Suffragette on the stairs and informed his mother that the peddler said the geraniums were 20 cents each. "Nonsense!" said Mrs. Jarr. "There was a man through here a little while ago selling them two for a quarter." She might have purchased a half-dozen or so, however, as they flamed bravely below. But Mrs. Stryver was seen alighting from her automobile and it is a part of gentility not to patronize peddlers—if your more prosperous friends are present. "I just dropped in to see you a moment," puffed Mrs. Stryver when she arrived at the Jarr apartments, "and oh, dear! I wish you had I've been around all morning collecting subscriptions." "A flower guild?" queried Mrs. Jarr. "Yes, to send flowers to the poor and the shut-ins. I think it a beautiful and gracious charity. And I've been around all morning collecting subscriptions." "That's very sweet of you. You never call unless it is to demonstrate again that you are working for some good cause," said Mrs. Jarr. This was said meaningfully—Mrs. Stryver was very seldom called unless it was to

The Messenger Boy. "W HERE are you going, Senator? You seem busy." "I am busy. Her Ambition.

SHE was a dear, old-fashioned, modest, simple maiden lady. So that when she announced the fact that she thought of paying a chiropodist a visit her great friend was duly astonished. "I didn't know you suffered from corns," remarked the latter, when the news was first broken to her. "I don't," replied the old lady mildly, albeit firmly; "neither am I afflicted with bunions, chilblains nor any other pains in the feet." Her friend gazed at her with growing consternation. "Then, my dear," she remonstrated gently, "what on earth do you want to visit a chiropodist for?" The little old lady's cheeks blushed a delicate pink as she leaned forward, laid one mittened hand on her interrogator's arm and whispered: "It's this way, my dear. I do so want to be able to boast that at least once in my life I had a man at my feet!"
